

Special Issue on Human Geography

Call for Papers

Human geography is the branch of social sciences that explores the relationships between humans and their natural environment, and tracks the broad social patterns that shape human societies.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Human Geography. The topics to be covered by this special issue include, but are not limited to:

- Cultural geography
- Development geography
- Economic geography
- Health geography
- Historical geography
- Political geography
- Population geography
- Urban geography

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue - Human Geography” should be chosen during your submission.
