

Special Issue on Technology and Society

Call for Papers

Technology affects every part of a society, such as military, architecture, cities, health, communication, government, time/calendars, record keeping, language and so on. Advancements in technology have already tapped into every area of life. It affects the way we communicate, learn, and think. It determines how people interact with each other on a daily basis. It has always been an intrinsic part of civilization. Technology improves all aspects of human lives, making us easier and diverse. Though technological advancements are generally seen as a positive change, some people perceive them in a negative light. Clearly, technology by itself is neither good nor bad. It is only the way and extent to which we use it that matters. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of Technology and Society.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Technology and Society. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Technological determinism
- Social implications
- Innovation diffusion
- Technological advancement
- Technological surveillance
- Surveillance capitalism
- Cybersecurity
- Ancient technology
- Technical innovation
- Advancements in education
- Advancements in transportation
- Improvement on communication
- Mechanization of agriculture
- Positive impact of technology
- Depletion of resources
- Pollution increase
- Negative impact of technology
- Effects of technology on the natural world
- Interaction of technology and humans
- Inventions and patents
- Collaborative technological development

-
- Culture, technology and society

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Technology and Society” should be selected during your submission.

Special Issue Timetable:

Submission Deadline	March 26th, 2024
Publication Date	May 2024

Guest Editor:

For further questions or inquiries, please contact Editorial Assistant at jss@scirp.org.