

Special Issue on Cultural Communication and Dialogue

Call for Papers

Cultural Communication and Dialogue explores the dynamics of how cultures interact, exchange meanings, and build understanding in an increasingly interconnected world. This theme focuses on the processes, challenges, and opportunities that arise in intercultural communication, including language exchange, cross-cultural cooperation, conflict resolution, media representation, and the preservation of cultural identity. By examining both traditional and contemporary communication practices, it highlights the role of dialogue in fostering mutual respect, reducing misunderstandings, and promoting social cohesion across diverse communities. The issue aims to encourage scholarly insights and practical approaches that support harmonious cultural interaction and global cultural resilience.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Cultural Communication and Dialogue. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Communication ethics in multicultural contexts
- Community engagement and participatory dialogue
- Cross-cultural dialogue and collaboration
