

Special Issue on Ethnic Identity and Cultural Dynamics

Call for Papers

Cultural and Ethnic Studies examines how individuals and communities construct, express, and negotiate their sense of belonging within diverse social and cultural environments. This field explores the interplay between historical heritage, cultural practices, language, collective memory, and social structures in shaping ethnic identities over time. It also analyzes processes such as assimilation, cultural preservation, hybridity, and interethnic interaction, highlighting how globalization, migration, and political forces influence cultural change and identity formation. Through interdisciplinary perspectives, this area of study provides deeper insight into community cohesion, cultural resilience, and the evolving dynamics of multicultural societies.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Ethnic Identity and Cultural Dynamics. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Community and collective memory
- Comparative cultural studies
- Cultural anthropology
- Cultural assimilation and integration
- Cultural globalization
- Cultural heritage preservation
- Cultural hybridity studies
- Ethnic identity formation
- Indigenous studies
- Intercultural communication
- Interethnic relations
- Language and identity
- Migration and diaspora studies
- Multiculturalism research
- Race and ethnicity studies
- Social identity theory

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - *Ethnic Identity and Cultural Dynamics” should be selected during your submission.
