

Special Issue on Financial Crisis and Challenges

Call for Papers

A financial crisis is any of a broad variety of situations in which some financial assets suddenly lose a large part of their nominal value. In the 19th and early 20th centuries, many financial crises were associated with banking panics, and many recessions coincided with these panics. Other situations that are often called financial crises include stock market crashes and the bursting of other financial bubbles, currency crises, and sovereign defaults.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Financial Crisis and Challenges. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Coping with the global financial crisis
- Financial crisis and regulatory
- Financial structure and financial crisis
- Post-crisis challenges
- Banking and currency crisis
- Market responses
- Macroeconomic policy
- Trade credit
- Supply chain management
- Impacts on exports and imports
- Monetary policy
- Impacts on global financial system
- Productivity slowdown
- Inflation and recession
- Labor market
- Firms survived and rebuilt
- Economic crisis and developing countries
- COVID-19 and global economy

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Financial Crisis and Challenges” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	April 29th, 2022
Publication Date	June 2022

For publishing inquiries, please feel free to contact the Editorial Assistant at submission.entrance1@scirp.org

ME Editorial Office
me@scirp.org