

Special Issue on International Economics and Finance

Call for Papers

International Economics and Finance examines the economic interactions between countries, focusing on trade, investment, and currency exchange. This field analyzes how trade policies, exchange rates, and global capital flows affect national economies and international relations. It encompasses topics like trade theory, balance of payments, financial markets, and the impact of globalization. By studying these dynamics, researchers and policymakers seek to understand economic behavior on a global scale and address challenges such as trade imbalances and financial crises.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on International Economics and Finance. Potential topics include, but are not limited to

- International trade and investment
- International business and finance
- International macroeconomics
- International finance theory
- International monetary economics
- International financial markets and institutions
- Exchange rate economics
- Global capital markets
- Balance of payments
- International policy coordination
- Globalization and economic integration
- International taxation
- International development economics
- International risk management
- Global financial stability and crises
- Strategic decisions in global perspective
- International corporate finance
- Mergers and acquisitions

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – International Economics and Finance” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	February 5th, 2025
Publication Date	April 2025

For publishing inquiries, please feel free to contact the Editorial Assistant at submission.entrance1@scirp.org

ME Editorial Office
me@scirp.org