

Special Issue on Economics of Social Issues

Call for Papers

The academic topic "Economics of Social Issues" focuses on applying economic principles and methodologies to analyze various social issues. It involves studying the impact of economic factors on social problems and proposing solutions from an economic perspective. This field examines the allocation of limited resources within society, the distribution of income and wealth, and the effects of economic policies on social welfare. Examples of social issues that can be studied within this field include inequality, poverty, education, healthcare, crime, discrimination, environmental degradation, and social justice. By studying the economics of social issues, researchers aim to understand how economic factors contribute to societal problems and develop strategies to address them effectively.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Economics of Social Issues. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Income inequality
- Competition and global market
- Sustainable socioeconomic development
- Behavioral economics and social issues
- Regions, economy and society
- Socio-economic planning and policy
- Public policy
- Public finance and development
- Public economics and social issues
- Political economy
- Cultural economics
- Ethics and economics
- Poverty research
- Economics of welfare, well-being and happiness
- Labor economics
- Land economy
- Environmental economics
- Social policy and economics
- Economics of migration
- Population sciences and health economics
- Demographics and socio-economic development

-
- Gender and economics
 - Economics of family and household
 - Economics of social mobility
 - Economics of social capital
 - Social and economic values

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Economics of Social Issues” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	November 3rd, 2023
Publication Date	January 2024

For publishing inquiries, please feel free to contact the Editorial Assistant at submission.entrance1@scirp.org

OJBM Editorial Office
ojbm@scirp.org