Special Issue on Language, Discourse & Society

Call for Papers

Language is not only a communication system between individuals, but also a communication system between societies. Sociolinguistics mainly studies the influence of various levels of society on language use. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of Language, Discourse & Society.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Language, Discourse & Society. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Language and culture
- Language policy and planning
- Discourse analysis
- Language use
- Verbal interaction or communication
- Language and race
- Sociolinguistics and language change
- Language and gender
- Application of sociolinguistics
- Anthropological linguistics

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the "Special Issue" under your manuscript title. The research field "Special Issue - *Language, Discourse & Society" should be selected during your submission.

Special Issue Timetable:

Submission Deadline	April 20th, 2021
Publication Date	June 2021

Guest Editor:

For further questions or inquiries, please contact Editorial Assistant at ojml@scirp.org.