Special Issue on Language and Translation

Call for Papers

Language and Translation are two interconnected fields of study that are concerned with the communication and interpretation of meaning across different linguistic and cultural boundaries. Language is a system of communication that enables humans to express thoughts, emotions, and ideas through the use of words, grammar, and syntax. Translation is the process of rendering a written or spoken text in one language into an equivalent text in another language, while preserving the original meaning and style of the text. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of Language and Translation.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Language and Translation. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Audiovisual translation
- Bible translations
- Bilingual dictionary
- Cognitive processes in translation and interpreting
- Consecutive interpreting
- Corpus linguistics
- Discourse analysis
- English translation
- Interpretation services
- Language acquisition
- Language interpretation
- Language technologies
- Language translation
- Literal translation
- Machine translation
- Medical translation
- Metaphrase
- Paraphrase
- Simultaneous interpreting
- Source language cultures
- Translation and cultural identity
- Translation and globalization
- Translation quality assessment
- Translation services

- Translation theory and practice

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the "Special Issue" under your manuscript title. The research field "Special Issue - *Language and Translation" should be selected during your submission.

Special Issue Timetable:

Submission Deadline	April 12th, 2024
Publication Date	June 2024

Guest Editor:

For further questions or inquiries, please contact Editorial Assistant at ojml@scirp.org.