

Special Issue on Human Pregnancy and Parturition Clinical Management

Call for Papers

Pregnancy and Parturition are major events in human life. The health care providers' mission of antenatal care is to treat conditions that may alter development and health of the embryo and fetus. In consequence, birth and parturition represent a challenge for the adaptation to a new environment. Birth conditions may vary in relation to healthcare facilities, prenatal care, and educational and economical conditions. Healthiness among mothers and their children is a critical indicator of health status of the world's population as well as the health outcome of future generations. So the research about clinical management becomes very important in this condition. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of research on the human pregnancy and parturition clinical management.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original researches and review articles on exploring human pregnancy and parturition clinical management. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- The application of clinical management for high-risk pregnancy management maternal and neonatal childbirth
- The methods for management of drug use during pregnancy
- Congenital syphilis and its impact over perinatal deaths
- The clinical management methods over the women with preterm labor
- The study about stillbirth and its management
- Gestational diabetes prenatal standardized examination and management

Authors should read over the journal's Authors' Guidelines carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue - Human Pregnancy and Parturition Clinical Management” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	June 5th, 2014
Publication Date	August 2014

Guest Editor:

For further questions or inquiries
Please contact Editorial Assistant at ojog@scirp.org