

Special Issue on Birth Control

Call for Papers

Birth control, also known as contraception and fertility control, is designed to prevent pregnancy. Planning, provision and use of birth control is called family planning. People have used birth control methods for thousands of years, but effective and safe methods only became available in the 20th century. A number of methods to perform birth control are being studied. However, Improvements of existing birth control methods are still needed.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original researches and review articles on exploring birth control. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Birth control history
- Birth control methods
- Side-effects and potential risks
- Mechanism of action
- Efficacy and effectiveness
- Society and culture

Authors should read over the journal's Authors' Guidelines carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Birth Control” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	October 16th, 2014
Publication Date	December 2014

Guest Editor:

For further questions or inquiries
Please contact Editorial Assistant at ojog@scirp.org