Special Issue on Clinical Ophthalmology and Eye Health

Call for Papers

Clinical Ophthalmology and Eye Health is a branch of medicine that focuses on the diagnosis, treatment, and prevention of eye diseases and conditions. It involves a comprehensive understanding of the anatomy, physiology, and pathophysiology of the eye, enabling ophthalmologists to effectively manage a wide range of visual impairments. This field also emphasizes the importance of eye health promotion and education, aiming to prevent eye diseases and maintain optimal visual function throughout life. With advancements in technology and research, Clinical Ophthalmology continues to evolve, providing better diagnostic tools and treatment options for patients.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Clinical Ophthalmology and Eye Health. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Anterior segment diseases
- Retina and vitreous diseases
- Ocular inflammation and immunity
- Cataract
- Glaucoma
- Strabismus
- Uveitis
- Neuro-ophthalmology
- Pediatric ophthalmology
- Ocular oncology
- Refractive surgery
- Ocular pharmacology
- Ocular imaging and diagnostics
- Preventive ophthalmology and public health

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Clinical Ophthalmology and Eye Health” should be chosen during your submission.
