Special Issue on Occupational Health and Safety

Call for Papers

Occupational health and safety is a multidisciplinary field concerned with the safety, health, and welfare of people at work, devoted to the prevention and management of occupational and environmental injury, illness and disability, and promotion of health and productivity of workers, their families and communities.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Occupational Health and Safety. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Workplace accidents and injuries management
- Treatment of occupational diseases
- Occupational epidemiology
- Prevention strategy
- Pain management and occupational therapy
- Environmental and occupational health
- Occupational exposures to hazards
- Occupational risk assessment
- Public policy and health promotion
- Occupational and public health
- Occupation and cancer risk
- Quality of life at work
- Safety precautions
- Management of occupational mental health
- Respiratory protection
- Preparing workplaces for COVID-19
- Occupational health and information systems

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Occupational Health and Safety” should be chosen during your submission.
