

Special Issue on Political Democracy and Political Theory

Call for Papers

Political democracy refers to a political form that guarantees the equal realization of civil rights on the basis of specific economic relations and interest relations. It means to replace or choose the government by free and fair election, and all citizens participate in government decision-making equally. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of Political Democracy and Political Theory.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Political Democracy and Political Theory. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Political democracy and social equality
- Economic democracy
- Direct democracy
- Representative democracy
- Democracy and human rights
- Faith and freedom
- Inclusiveness and equality
- Laws and theories
- Theory of constitutions and citizenship
- Political rights and political liberties
- Democratic theory

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Political Democracy and Political Theory” should be selected during your submission.
