

Special Issue on Public Policy Research

Call for Papers

Public Policy is any public official does or does not do about a problem that comes before them for consideration and possible action. It generally consists of government laws, regulations, court decisions, and local ordinances. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of Public Policy Research.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Public Policy Research. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Constitutional laws and regulations
- Domestic policy and foreign policy
- Energy policy and environmental policy
- Court decisions
- Government laws
- Local ordinances
- Management and leadership
- Planning and regulating
- Policy analysis
- Political economy and fiscal policy
- Politics and international affairs
- Public service
- Regulations

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Public Policy Research” should be selected during your submission.
