

Special Issue on Clinical Psychology and Health

Call for Papers

The values of the clinical program are reflected in current themes of our work, including: basic science research on psychopathology and its treatment; 2) integrative science involving methods and theories from related psychological disciplines; 3) evaluations of the psychological mechanisms, efficacy, effectiveness, and applications of psychosocial treatments; 4) applications of scientific inquiry to prevention and social policy. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in this area of clinical psychology and health.

In this special issue, we invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles that explore clinical psychology and health. In this special issue, potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Psychological assessment
- Psychological treatment
- The psychological consultation
- Behavioral and cognitive behavioral
- Psychiatry
- Criticisms and controversies

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue – Clinical Psychology and Health” should be selected during your submission.

Special Issue timetable:

Submission Deadline	February 27th, 2018
Publication Date	April 2018

Guest Editor:

For further questions or inquiries
Please contact Editorial Assistant at psych@scirp.org