Special Issue on Family Psychology

Call for Papers

Family psychology is a broad specialty in professional psychology based upon the principles of systems theory with a strong focus on the interpersonal system of the family.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Family Psychology. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Psychology of family relationships
- Family therapy and counseling
- Emotions and behaviors
- Parents’ role in child development
- Parenting and parenthood
- Family education and psychology
- Child & family development
- Marriage and couples
- Domestic violence and family environment
- Child abuse
- Love, sex & intimacy
- Divorce and influences

Authors should read over the journal’s For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal’s Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Family Psychology” should be chosen during your submission.
