Special Issue on Social Psychology

Call for Papers

Social psychology is the scientific study of how the thoughts, feelings, and behaviors of individuals are influenced by the actual, imagined, and implied presence of others, explaining human behavior as being a result of the relationship between mental state and social situation, studying the conditions under which thoughts, feelings, and behaviors occur and how these variables influence social interactions.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Social Psychology. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Social psychological theories
- Social cognition and behavior
- Human behavior and social environment,
- Attitudes and behavior
- Emotion and motivation
- Personality and social psychology
- Interpersonal relationships
- Social identity approach
- Prosocial behavior
- Love and intimacy
- Aggression and violence
- Addictive behaviors
- Sociocultural perspective
- Social influence and decision making
- Stereotypes, prejudice, and discrimination
- Gender and social difference
- Intergroup study
- Psychology for policy analysis
- Culture and religion

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the "Special Issue" under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field "Special Issue – *Social Psychology" should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	October 13th, 2022
Publication Date	December 2022

For publishing inquiries, please feel free to contact the Editorial Assistant at submission.entrance1@scirp.org

PSYCH Editorial Office
psych@scirp.org