Special Issue on Abdominal Surgery

Call for Papers

Abdominal Surgery is an academic field that focuses on surgical interventions related to the organs and structures within the abdomen. It involves the diagnosis, treatment, and management of various abdominal conditions, such as gastrointestinal diseases, urological disorders, and gynecological conditions, that require surgical intervention. Abdominal surgeons are trained to perform procedures ranging from minimally invasive surgeries, such as laparoscopic procedures, to more complex open surgeries. They work closely with other healthcare professionals to provide comprehensive care to patients, ensuring the best possible outcomes. This field encompasses a broad range of sub-specialties, including gastrointestinal surgery, hepatobiliary surgery, colorectal surgery, urological surgery, and gynecological surgery. It continually incorporates emerging technologies and surgical techniques to enhance patient care and improve surgical outcomes.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Abdominal Surgery. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Laparotomy
- Laparoscopy
- Minimally invasive surgery
- Inguinal hernia surgery
- Pancreas surgery
- Abdominal wall reconstruction
- Acute abdomen
- Gastrointestinal surgery
- Hepatobiliary surgery
- Colorectal surgery
- Bariatric surgery
- Urological surgery
- Gynecological surgery
- Transplant surgery
- Trauma surgery
- Comprehensive approach of treatment

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.
