

Special Issue on Economic Growth

Call for Papers

Economic growth is the increase in the inflation-adjusted market value of the goods and services produced by an economy over time. It is conventionally measured as the percent rate of increase in real gross domestic product, or real GDP. It concerns economic issues about growth models, income distribution, human capital, production, trade, migration, money, political policy, and economic fluctuations.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Economic Growth. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Theories and models of growth
- Optimal economic growth
- Macroeconomic modeling
- Economic fluctuations and growth
- Effects of inflation
- Productivity and economic growth
- Trade, investment and economic growth
- Strategic initiative for economic growth
- Inequality and growth
- Marketing and market growth
- Economic growth and policies
- Structural change and economic dynamics
- Competition, innovation, and inclusive growth
- Political economy of growth
- Social capital and economic growth
- Innovation, economics and governance
- Sustainable economic growth
- Human capital and economic growth
