

Special Issue on Econometrics & Quantitative Economics

Call for Papers

Econometrics & Quantitative Economics is a multidisciplinary field that employs statistical and mathematical techniques to analyze economic data, test theories, and predict outcomes. It plays a vital role in informing economic decision-making, policy evaluation, and forecasting. By studying the intricate dynamics of economic systems, this field enables economists and policymakers to gain valuable insights, validate economic theories, and make informed predictions about the consequences of policy interventions. Through statistical analysis and mathematical models, it provides a framework for comprehending real-world economic phenomena and making informed choices.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Econometrics & Quantitative Economics. Potential topics include, but are not limited to

- Applied microeconometrics
- Macroeconometrics
- Financial econometrics
- Optimization problems and models
- Stochastic models
- Qualitative methods
- Time series analysis
- Bayesian econometrics
- Linear and nonlinear models
- General equilibrium model
- Forecasting and predictive modeling
- Econometric methods and policy interventions
- Econometrics and statistical methods
- Empirical analysis and policy evaluation

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Econometrics & Quantitative Economics” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	January 22nd, 2024
Publication Date	March 2024
