

Special Issue on Banking and Finance

Call for Papers

"Banking and Finance" is an academic topic that encompasses the study of financial institutions, markets, and instruments, as well as the principles and practices of banking. It involves understanding the role of banks in the economy, financial systems, risk management, investment analysis, and financial decision-making. This field explores concepts such as monetary policy, asset pricing, corporate finance, and international finance. It provides a comprehensive understanding of financial markets, regulations, and the overall functioning of the financial sector, enabling individuals to pursue careers in banking, financial analysis, and investment management.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Banking and Finance. Potential topics include, but are not limited to
