

Special Issue on
Investment and Sustainable Economic Growth
Call for Papers

"Investment and Sustainable Economic Growth" explores the relationship between investment activities and long-term sustainable economic development. It examines how various forms of investment, including financial, human, and physical capital, contribute to promoting sustainable growth by enhancing productivity, innovation, and social and environmental well-being. The topic delves into the role of investment policies, strategies, and institutions in fostering sustainable economic growth while addressing challenges such as resource constraints, climate change, and inequality.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Investment and Sustainable Economic Growth. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Sustainable investment strategies, metrics and decisions.
- Corporate governance and investment
- Sustainability risks and opportunities
- Social and sustainable finance
- Green finance and sustainable investment
- Impact investing and social entrepreneurship
- Sustainable development and investment policy
- Environmental, social, and governance (ESG) investing
- Technological innovation and sustainable growth
- Sustainable infrastructure investment
- Resource economics and sustainable investment
- Investment and poverty reduction
- Sustainable agriculture and investment
- Sustainable tourism and investment.

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.
